IF YOU FEEL UNWELL...

partridgeberry is another an interesting plant that warrants getting down on bands and knees to observe. Two white flowers, blooming in early summer, fuse together to produce one tiny berry. A close examination of that berry, which changes from green to real during the second mandbe will be real during the second mandbe will thinking about Halloween. This is also the time of year when the datsies, asters, and goldenrods are just coming into their lushest period of growth.

Their is withy, without your were hankly encoding is an include another your is considerably flowed is an include another and consideration thereas an an include an and an include the second of the second of the second and and and and the second of the second of the second and and and and and the second of the second of the second and and an and an and an and the second of the

You can always join the online classes at home.

Monitor your condition at home, especially if you have symptoms such as a fever or cough.

☑ If you feel sick while on campus, please go home immediately

COVID-19 is highly infectious so please be vigilant and considerate. If you feel unwell, isolate and take preventive measures. Do not blame or bully others.

※ For more information, go to Tohoku University's Global Site: http://www.tohoku.ac.jp/en/news/university_news/information_of_covid_19.html

